

Dear Friends

Unfortunately, after the Autumn edition of Lumen went to press, the move to Cents had to be put on hold, as explained in my email message of 3 November to all parishioners:

“The best laid plans of mice and men gang aft aglay.” So said someone, possibly Robert Burns. Those were some of the words that came to my mind as it became clear that our planned experimental move would not materialize as soon as we had hoped.

Basically, there is a lot of goodwill about our trial move, not least amongst the Parish Council of Cents church, but there are some tricky issues to resolve, the most important of which are straightforwardly technical, but will still take time to work through.

So we will continue to hold our services in the Konvikt Centre, probably until the New Year at least.

However, there is much in the magazine that is still relevant and of interest, wherever we hold our services, so we have decided to send it to you in the usual way.

Best Wishes

Chris Lyon
